
ACTOR PART BOOK

Player 3

the youngest in the company — Juvenile Lead, Prompter, and the small parts

Six Characters in Search of an Author

24 SPEECHES · 343 WORDS ACROSS THE PLAY

WHO PLAYER 3 IS

The youngest in the company, by a good ten years — early twenties, first proper season. She is the happiest person in the building; she still cannot quite believe she is being paid (a little) to spend her evenings inside a theatre. She does a bit of everything, and no job is beneath her, because all of it is theatre, and theatre is the thing she loves.

Her dominant register is curious. Where Player 1 has opinions and Player 2 has shoulders, Player 3 has questions. The notebook is her tell: she writes everything down — and the moment she stops writing is the moment the play has stopped being a curiosity and become something she would rather not have on record.

Her arc: Act One, enthralled by the strangers and a little embarrassed by it — the one Player who says out loud that the Father means every word. Act Two, she stops nodding; the pencil goes still. Act Three, she is the conscience who asks whether someone should stop this, and waits, and is not answered. Her face is the audience's mirror at every horror in the second half.

THE FUNCTIONS SHE CARRIES

- Juvenile Lead — eager, slightly ridiculous; she has been told she has "stage presence" and heard it as a promise.
- Prompter — in the wooden box, frowning at the draught and the shorthand, pleased to be useful, compensating for her youth with seriousness.
- An Actor and the Fifth Actor — she reads the small parts clean, no pretension, and looks to Player 2 to check she did it right.

HOW TO READ THIS BOOK

Everything Player 3 says and does, in performance order, grouped by act and by part. Each of her speeches is preceded by a short CUE — the tail of the line before hers — so you can find your entrance. The function she is in (as Prompter, as Juvenile Lead) is printed beside each line. Her blocking lives in the bracketed action cues inside her speeches. The text is pulled byte-for-byte from the Director's Copy, so it always matches the current script.

Act One

PART I The Rehearsal

PLAYER 3 HERE · 3 SPEECHES · 77 WORDS · PROMPTER

CUE Player 1 (as Leading Man): ... public came back for the third act once. I was in it.

PLAYER 3 (as Prompter) [reading the "book"]: "Leo Gala's house. A curious room serving as dining-room and study."

CUE Player 2 (as Property Man): Red set. Same flats as the blue room. I'll turn them round.

PLAYER 3 (as Prompter) [reading from the "book"]: "When the curtain rises, Leo Gala, dressed in cook's cap and apron is busy beating an egg in a cup. Philip, also dressed as a cook, is beating another egg. Guido Venanzi is seated and listening."

CUE Player 1 (as Leading Man): Let the record show that I wear it under protest.

PLAYER 3 (as Prompter): Pardon, sir — may I get into my box? There's a draught off that door they still haven't mended, and I'd rather not be hoarse for my first proper season.

PART II The Plea

PLAYER 3 HERE · 11 SPEECHES · 179 WORDS · JUVENILE LEAD

CUE The Step-Daughter: ... us on tonight — we'll draw better than whatever you were rehearsing.

PLAYER 3 [coming forward from the others]: Oh — do you hear that?

CUE The Father: ... woman. So one may also be born a character in a play.

PLAYER 3 [softly, to Player 2]: Sorry — is this still the rehearsal?

CUE Player 2 (as Leading Lady): ... all down, and we'll work out later which half was the play.

PLAYER 3 [doing exactly that, in a small notebook]: I am writing it all down. I've got "born a character in a play." I don't know what it means yet — but it seemed like the sort of thing one is meant to keep.

CUE The Father: No, sir, only for a moment... in you.

PLAYER 3. Just listen to him. Honestly — just listen. I came in for a Tuesday rehearsal, and there is a man on our stage who means every word he says. When did anyone here last mean a word?

CUE Player 1 (as Leading Man): Speak for yourself. I have room.

PLAYER 3 (as Juvenile Lead) [pointing to the STEP-DAUGHTER]: I've no objection, as far as that one is concerned!

CUE Player 2 (as Leading Lady): We are the audience this time.

PLAYER 3 [quietly, the pencil not moving]: For once. [Nobody laughs.]

CUE The Father: ... and you hear another? We think we understand. We never really do.

PLAYER 3 [a whisper to Player 1]. I understood words. I'm fairly confident about words.

CUE The Manager: Of course, of course; but let's hear them out.

PLAYER 3 (as Juvenile Lead) [the most earnest of the three, genuinely curious]. This is something quite new. I have not seen anything quite like this before.

CUE Player 3 (as Juvenile Lead): ... something quite new. I have not seen anything quite like this before.

PLAYER 3 [dropping the role, lower, to Player 2 — nervous, fast]. We did Pirandello at the school in Geneva. Two scenes, in a basement, badly. I keep thinking — this is what it was supposed to feel like, and nobody ever told us.

CUE The Father: ... is the way we tell each other: blind yourself, because I have.

PLAYER 3 [low, to Player 1]. Is anyone else following this? At all?

CUE Player 1 (as Leading Man): ... I am nodding, and so should you. Nodding is half the craft.

PLAYER 3 [nodding — then catching herself nodding, and stopping]. I'm following some of it. I'm just not sure I want to follow the rest. That's new for me as well.

PART III The Bargain

PLAYER 3 HERE · 3 SPEECHES · 15 WORDS · JUVENILE LEAD, PROMPTER

CUE Player 1 (as Leading Man): ... six strangers into his office and left us standing here like furniture.

PLAYER 3 (as Juvenile Lead). They are not ordinary strangers.

CUE Player 2: He once staged the Nativity in fifteen.

PLAYER 3. Perhaps there is a play.

CUE Player 1 (as Door-keeper): They looked expected.

PLAYER 3 (as Prompter). Am I taking this down?

Act Two

PART I Backstage

PLAYER 3 HERE · 3 SPEECHES · 27 WORDS · PROMPTER

CUE The Son: ... apart from that idea of father and mother which we give them?

PLAYER 3 [very quietly, the pencil gone still in her hand]. Mon Dieu. I've stopped writing it down. I don't want a record of this one.

CUE The Manager: ... I'm going to ask you to do something out of the ordinary.

PLAYER 3 (as Prompter) [looking up from the book; an unusual request to receive at this hour]. Take it down in shorthand? Sir — in shorthand?

CUE The Manager: Exactly! Can you do shorthand?

PLAYER 3 (as Prompter). Yes, a little.

PART II The Apparition

PLAYER 3 HERE · 2 SPEECHES · 18 WORDS · JUVENILE LEAD

CUE Player 1 (as Leading Man): What's going to happen next? Have we lost the script entirely?

PLAYER 3 (as Juvenile Lead). Where does she come from? Not from the SSA list, I can tell you that.

CUE Player 1 (as Leading Man): What does she say? Madame — speak up.

PLAYER 3 (as Juvenile Lead). Louder! Louder please!

PART III The Substitution

PLAYER 3 DOES NOT SPEAK IN THIS PART — SHE IS ON THE FLOOR WITH THE COMPANY, WATCHING.

Act Three

PART I The Argument over Reality

PLAYER 3 DOES NOT SPEAK IN THIS PART — SHE IS ON THE FLOOR WITH THE COMPANY, WATCHING.

PART II The Refusal

PLAYER 3 HERE · 1 SPEECH · 20 WORDS · AS HERSELF

CUE The Father: ... life. We've all tried him in turn — I, she and she.

PLAYER 3 [to no one in particular — the youngest voice in the room]. Should we — should someone — stop this? I keep waiting for one of you to say that we should. [No one does.]

PART III The Fountain

PLAYER 3 HERE · 1 SPEECH · 7 WORDS · JUVENILE LEAD

CUE The Son: What do you want?

PLAYER 3 (as Juvenile Lead). Nothing! I was just looking at you.
